Panel Probes Negro Image Tonight, 7:30

An eight-member panel will probe into the feeling of disenfranchisement on the part of American Negroes, tonight at 7:30 in Faculty Cafeteria.

The panel will try to determine such things as, reasons for the lack of identity many Negroes have with the society in which they live.

Topic of the discussion will be "A Negro Go Back to Africa?" (an opinionated question). Tanj an independent Negro student educational group, will sponsor the event.

PANEL AIMS

Margaret Carter, junior psychology major, and moderator for the panel, reports that a major aim of the panel will be to discuss why "Negro Americans are least proud of their heritage."

Other questions expected to arise during the evening are those dealing with relations between American Negroes and African Students and sociological handicaps to Negro fulfillment in the United States.

Only faculty member on the panel will be Dr. Harry Gailey, associate professor of history. Charles McAllister, graduate of Pepperdine University in Los Angeles, will speak on behalf of the Bahia, one world faith.

STUDENT PANELISTS

Student panelists will be: Al Mason, senior journalism major; Terry Wheeler, senior psychology major; Peon Roundtree, senior public administration major and president of Omega Psi Phi, Negro fraternity.

Steve Djerrbo Crayton, junior Industrial Engineering Major from Liberia will be the only African student on the panel.

Bob Cayou, chemical engineering major and president of Zanz and Ken Knowles, senior sociology major round out the panel.

CHEKHOV DRAMA

Varya, portrayed by Terry Somoni, and Lopahin, played by Stanley A. Anderson Jr., begin to pack for the journey in a scene from Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard." The tragedy-comedy on Russian life will be presented tonight at 8:15 in Studio Theatre. Tickets for the rehearsal and performance production, which opened last night may be purchased at College Theatre Box Office for 75 cents. Director Dr. Hal J. Todd, chairman of the Drama Department, said matinees will be presented Wednesday and Friday at 3 p.m.

Students May Petition for Change In Final Examination Schedule

Students having more than three finals in one day, or three finals amounting to more than nine units, may petition to have one examination changed to another time, Dr. Harrison Heath, testing officer, announced today.

Petitions may be picked up in the Examination Committee Office, ADM230, between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. daily. Petitions must be on file in the committee office at least five school days before the new examination time.

"Some students will have summer jobs, trips, military summer camps, enrollment at another college, pregnancies or weddings which interfere with our finals schedule," Dr. Heath continued. "If it is possible to make changes in the students' schedules within finals week, the Examination Committee will try to make these adjustments," he said.

Changes in finals to dates earlier than June 2 will not be approved, the testing officer pointed out.

Prof To Review 'Lord of Rings' At Book Talk

Nils Peterson, assistant professor of English, will discuss "The Lord of the Rings" at the semester's final Faculty Book tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. in Cafeteria rooms A and B.

The work is authored by J.R.R. Tolkien, English philologist, who has taught courses on the English language at the University of Leeds and at Oxford.

"The Lord of the Rings" is a trilogy consisting of "The Fellowship of the Ring," "The Two Towers" and "The Return of the King," the latter published in 1955.

Setting of the trilogy is "a mythical world in the Third Age of Middle-earth," according to its publishers.

Peterson joined the SJS staff in 1963. He received his B.A. from Centre College of Kentucky and his M.A. from Rutgers University.

Collective Bargaining Issue

AAA Denies AFT Request To Administer SJS Election

By JIM BAILEY
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

The American Arbitration Association yesterday denied a request by the American Federation of Teachers to administer a preferential collective bargaining election for SJS academic employees—but the election will still be held, newly elected AFT president Dr. John Galm, assistant professor of English, told Spartan Daily.

According to Dr. Galm the AFT will go ahead with plans to hold its election tomorrow and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Geodesic Dome. AFT has hired San Francisco Certified Public Accountant Thomas D. O'Connell to handle the election in place of the AAA.

Galm reported that the AAA had decided not to administer the collective bargaining election, because the association "had been pressured into turning us down by the National Education Association," one of AAA's major customers.

AGAINST BARGAINING

The AFT president-elect further charged that the NEA was one organization which opposed the AFT proposal because "they have been traditionally against collective bargaining for teachers and would oppose any election."

In the telegram to the AAA, an NEA spokesman declared that NEA was against the election because there wasn't enough time for discussion and alternate proposals.

Saturday the State College Academic Council of the California State Employee's Association

(CSEA), meeting in Los Angeles, unanimously requested the AAA not to administer the election.

The CSEA centered a nine-point objection to the election around the term "collective bargaining" being inserted in the ballot when it wasn't listed on the petition signed by some 700 SJS faculty members.

The petition read in part . . . "that an election by secret ballot be held to determine which professional faculty organization, if any, shall be designated exclusive bargaining agent for the faculty in negotiations with the trustees on matters of salary and conditions affecting the performance of their work. . . ."

CSEA OBJECTION

The CSEA further objected to an election head reading "California State Colleges" when the election was being held at only SJS and San Fernando Valley State College. The CSEA also opposed the election because there was no basis for it in law.

State College Chancellor Dr. Glenn S. Dumke in a letter to AFT local president John G. Sperling voted opposition to the election because it "is incompatible with state law and the regulations of the Board of Trustees."

Further objections were voiced by Dr. Charles Larsen, associate professor of mathematics, and local president of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

Dr. Larsen claims he is not opposed to the idea of an election to determine collective bargaining procedures. However, he objects to the use of an outside agency rather than the Academic Senate.

Address Changes

Tuesday, May 31, is the deadline for students to change the addresses where they want this semester's grades mailed. Changes can be made at windows five or seven in the Registrar's Office.

Draft Test-Final Conflict Causes Cries of 'Help!'

Help!

That is the anguished cry of SJS students with 9:30 a.m. classes who must choose between taking their regular final exams next Friday, June 3, between 7:30-9:50 a.m. and taking their draft deferment tests at 8:30 a.m. in Morris Dailey Auditorium on the same day.

The only glimpse of hope in this avoidance-avoidance situation came from Dr. Harrison Heath, SJS test officer in charge of administration of the two test series. Dr. Heath suggested students write to the Selective Service Board in Chicago and arrange to take the fourth and final test on Saturday, June 24.

He added that they also might see him in his office, ADM218, and try to arrange a rescheduling of the regular final exam.

The administrator expressed regret at the situation, commenting that he did not schedule the tests but only administers them.

"Nothing will give. Both will be given that day," he said.

Draft Application Deadline June 1

Wednesday, June 1, is the last day for students to apply to the Registrar's Office to have their class standing sent to the Selective Service System, warns Registrar John Montgomery.

The draft board will use class standing as one means of deciding which students will receive draft deferments.

Montgomery stresses "Only the standings of those students who fill out forms will be given to the Selective Service System. We won't send anything unless the student requests it."

'Legislation Won't Work'

Controversy Continues Over Controls On Hallucination-Producing Drug LSD

By JUDY WALTER
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

Relatively few persons have experienced the effects of the mind-altering drug LSD, but nearly everyone, it seems, has formed an opinion as to what should be done with it. Controversy persists between those who favor extensive control and those who oppose it.

Dr. Ben C. Finney, SJS associate professor of psychology and counselor, compared the discovery of the drug to the opening of Pandora's Box. "Trying to put the drug back into the box by legislation won't work," he said. "It is like prohibition."

'MORE EDUCATION'

Dr. Maurice M. Osborne Jr., executive director of Stanford health service, told the Spartan Daily earlier this month that he believes the best "preventative measure" against casual experimentation is "more education, not just cracking the whip." He pointed out that such efforts "have not been a conspicuous success in the past," citing such attempts at control as prohibition and narcotics legislation.

Dr. Joel Forte, psychologist in charge of the center for special problems at San Francisco State Health Department, said at a recent SJS drug symposium that drug use is one illustration of dissatisfaction and alienation with society. "This is not going to be changed or controlled by passing suppressive legislation," he said.

RESTRICTIVE LEGISLATION

Restrictive legislation concerning the drug has recently been enacted at both the national and local levels of government. Nationally, LSD is among those drugs included in the Drug Abuse Control. The act prohibits manufacture of the drug, its distribution to unauthorized persons, or unlawful possession of the drug. The first offense is punishable by imprisonment of two years, up to $5,000 fine or both. Second offense is punishable by six years imprisonment, a fine up to $15,000 or both.

Thus, LSD users currently have "criminal" status, and the drug is available only on the "black market."

Proponents of the drug complain that such legislation merely adds to the "ignorance" and "myths" surrounding the drug, and stifles legitimate research.

Dr. Forte quoted Spinoza at the drug symposium, "We always strive for what is forbidden. He who tries to determine everything by law will foment crime rather than lessen it."

It seems that the new laws have done just that, since LSD experimentation seems to be continuing, if not increasing.

Despite the recent legislation and the increased experimentation, few questions have been answered. Nevertheless the questioning continues, often in the darkness of ignorance and illegality.

COED SPEAKS

What is the significance of the statements made by an SJS coed who said, "I can well understand why some people can't come down from the heights of LSD. It is hard to relinquish knowledgeable insanity for the limited boundaries of sanity. It is difficult to give up being God. I am lucky (or am I?) that I was as afraid of being God as I was thrilled by it."

Was she on the brink of some universal reality or merely a pawn of a psychological impractical joke?

What of the student who said, "I'm going up to San Francisco to work on the docks, to work like a dog. Maybe then I'll get my mind off this whirlwind. Everything is so confusing I can't think straight now."

Both opponents and proponents of the drug agree that there is still much ignorance about it. Perhaps we will never know the answers until professional experimenters take as much in-

New Department Head

Dr. Robert F. Clothier, professor of mechanical engineering, has been named department chairman, effective Sept. 1.

Dr. Clothier will replace Dr. Vasily D. Priyan, who will return to a full-time teaching assignment, according to an announcement made last week by President Robert D. Clark.

He has been a member of the faculty since 1957.

Seeks Faculty Interest

Frank O. Booth, grants management officer for the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, will meet with faculty members Wednesday, at 9:30 a.m. in Morris Dailey Auditorium to discuss his department's interest in research and training grants in the areas of water pollution.

UFO Movie Today

"Phenomena 7.7," a color movie about Unidentified Flying Objects, will be shown in Morris Dailey Auditorium today at 2:30 and tonight at 7:30.

Admission is a $1 donation from faculty and students and $2 from the general public. The 2:30 showing is for faculty and students only.

Committee Sign-ups

Students interested in serving on next fall's Parents Day Committee, may sign-up this week in the Student Union.

Steve Zell, committee chairman, said interviews for 17 committee positions will be conducted Thursday and Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the College Union.

Synanon Creed

By ELAINE GRAVES

We read a lot today about the LSD craze on our campus, but we don't read much about Synanon House.

Synanon House is where former drug addicts, living in converted armories or warehouses in California cities such as San Francisco, San Diego, and Santa Monica, work and counsel one another in a tough, disciplined environment.

They strive to "hang tough," meaning to gain the necessary fortitude to release their dependency on drugs.

Here a unique educational process is developing, vastly different from any type offered at San Jose State College. In this unusual environment, professor's lectures are exchanged for a most effective educational technique termed the "Synanon Game." Several participants sit in chairs in a circle and verbally express their hostile feelings concerning their behavior and attitudes. Everyone is a victim. No one escapes being told of how his behavior or attitude adversely affects the other Synanon members.

In Synanon an individual learns to communicate his feelings and thoughts, to realize his problems and work to overcome them, thus placing him in a position to learn.

Charles E. Dederich, former alcoholic and founder of Synanon House, states, "Crime is stupid, delinquency is stupid, and the use of narcotics is stupid; what Synanon is dealing with is addiction to stupidity."

Perhaps we, the students at SJS, can learn something from the Synanon creed and Dederich's comments. We should realize the stupidity of the LSD craze, and instead strive to "hang tough" from the temptation to try it just for kicks.

Liberal Arts, Recall Veto Draw Letters

Professor Favors Effective Teaching

Editor:

Since he did not present exposition or argument, I can only comment on some of the distortions in Peter King's letter of May 17, 1966.

I have not advocated giving up liberal education, but have asked for improvement in the teaching of the liberal arts. Peter King's letter exemplifies the low level of liberal arts in his failure to grasp ideas and to follow intellectual honesty.

Besides his misinterpretation of my letter and his entrapment in the fallacy of the false question and the false dilemma, he commits many errors philosophers and logicians have sought to eradicate and I submit examples:

1. Ad hominem argumentum, or personal attack, arguing that the man is bad, so his ideas must be bad.

2. Emotional coloration, name calling, or Hitler's "Big Lie" technique: "from Socrates' accusers . . . to Hitler's book burners . . . and Professor Broyles."

3. Either/or; the good guys like King, or the bad guys like Broyles. Broyles "exempts from anathema a few thinkers." (Whom King implies are bad.)

4. Red herring, opposition to good things, stirring up prejudice, or accusing the accuser: "Broyles wanted to suppress or censor the Tower List . . . any student of liberty (like King, obviously) would have sprung to the defense of a free press." Or the right to cry fire in a crowded theatre, if we follow King's reasoning . . .

Factual error: "Since Professor Broyles wants to withdraw all state support from colleges . . ."

In conclusion, I favor effective education in the liberal arts and humanities. I recommend enhanced effectiveness of the California State College System. I shudder at the idea that Peter King is representative of liberal education. He seeks to silence the critic but not the criticism. I wonder what his colleagues think of his response to my letter of May 6, 1966?

University Considers 'Pass-Fail' System

Just as there are three kinds of men, there are three kinds of college campuses: progressive, stationary and retrograde. One of the many factors determining the progressiveness of a university is the pass-fail grading system.

This system allows a student to take one course a semester on a passed, not passed basis, where "D" work or better would be considered passing. The student must decide which grading system he desires before he enrolls in the course. Courses not eligible for pass-fail grading would be courses in the student's major. The department, not the individual class instructor, determines whether a course is to be placed on a pass-fail option.

Pass-fail allows students to experiment in various courses without being penalized. If there has been a tendency in the past to avoid classes because of grade competition with majors in the field, the system would reduce this. Also, it would allow students to take advantage of this reduced competition, follow their interests and experiment throughout the catalogue.

Princeton University experimented with the pass-fail system and found that three-fourths of its undergraduates exercised the option. A Washington Post News Service report said that Princeton students . . . ventured into unfamiliar fields, selecting more than 200 courses ranging from modern architecture to digital computer theater."

The University of California at Santa Barbara recently studied and then adopted a pass-fail system which will go into effect fall term, 1966.

The pass-fail system has been tried and its value and success have been proven.

We recommend that Board of Control consider, study and then vote in favor of a pass-fail system and recommend this system to the Educational Policies Committee.

'Bad Day' for Smith? — That's What Winter Says

Would you believe . . . that Tommy Smith can have a bad day . . . but still miss three world records by just one-tenth of a second and a fourth by two-tenths?

According to Smith and track coach Bud Winter, that is just what happened.

"Tommy had a bad day even though he just missed the world records. His 100 start was somewhat wobbly and that slowed his time in the 100 yards (9.3) and 100 meters (10.1)," reports Winter.

"However, his 220 start was one of his best, but that head wind he met coming around the curve kept him from beating the record in the 220. Tommy told me after the race that he wasn't his usual loose self the last 25 yards of the 220."

Smith clocked 20.3 for the 220.

Surprise—Tommy Smith was named track athlete of week by Northern California Track Writers, again. It marks the fifth time this year Smith has been named. Former Spartan Jeff Chase won the field award for his 16-1 vault, also on the Spartan track.

yards and 200 meters, just off the world record for both distances of 20.2 held by Henry Carr.

His 100 yard time of 9.3 ties the school record set by Ray Norton in 1960 and tied by Dennis Johnson in 1961. The world record is 9.1 by Bob Hayes.

The 100 meter clocking of 10.1 fell short of the 10.0 world standard, held jointly by Hayes, Armin Hary, Harry Jerome and Horacio Estévez.

Teammate Wayne Hermen also had a good day with a 9.5 century and 10.2 100 meters. The speedy sprinter also clocked 21.3 for the 220 yard and 200 meter curve race.

Winter figured Smith and Hermen could have dropped a tenth of a second off their 100 yard times if they had aimed for that tape. Both, however, concentrated for the metric distance, saving the last-second tape lunge for the longer effort.

Dick Drake of Track and Field News said yesterday morning that Smith's showings pushed the Spartan past Henry Carr as the greatest all-around sprinter in track and field history.

Smith went into last Saturday's meet two points shy of Carr's 3,015 total by two points. His efforts Saturday gave him 3,043 points on the Portuguese Scoring Table scale.

Other outstanding SJS showings Saturday were turned in by long jumper Pat Moran and discus thrower Rich Saunders. Both recorded personal bests, Moran leaping 24-9, well past his previous high of 23-11½, and Saunders throwing 168-1, seven feet past his earlier best.

John Bambury turned in a surprising 21.6 for the 220, ranking as the third Spartan to qualify for the NCAA in the event.

Freshman Andy Vollmer covered the two-mile distance in 9:26.6 to finish well ahead of varsity distance runner Jim Sullivan (9:36.2) and frosh Byron Lowry (9:50.9).

Vollmer's time earned him honors as Novice Track Star of the Meet. Smith won the varsity award.

Freshman Coach Expects To Land Skilled Gridders

You never know what a high school athlete hounded by college recruiters is going to do.

He may tell five different schools he is going to attend classes on their campus, then matriculate at a sixth institution.

However, from all indications, SJS will land its share of top football prospects when classes open in September. Assistant coach John Webb believes 42 or 43 name players will be donning shoulder pads for the Spartababes next year.

Although having some top individuals, the frosh squad this season was hurt by a lack of numbers and could not even field two full teams.

Perhaps the biggest name Webb has lined up for next year is quarterback Dick Armstrong from Anaheim, the total yardage leader in Southern California this year and a participant in the Orange County all-star contest.

If things work out right, Armstrong will have a strong corps of ends to throw to, headed by Steve Brennan—from CIF champion Mater Dei—and Tenny Warren, who went to the same high school as present SJS star end Steve Cox and is rated just as good a prospect.

Webb also has four top running backs lined up, as well as a two-deep line crew.

O'Neill's 67 Wins P.E. Golf Tourney At Santa Teresa

Dr. Charles Walker and Dr. James Bosco slammed to championship honors in the team division of the annual Men's Physical Education Golf Tournament at Santa Teresa last weekend.

The combination fired a 67 with their handicaps in the match for faculty and staff members.

Danny Hill, former Sports Information Director, and swim coach Tom O'Neill took second place team honors.

In individual play, O'Neill carded a handicapped 67 to sweep to low net honors.

Present Sports Information Director Nurdy Jensen knocked five out-of-bounds shots on the front nine, but rebounded to card a handicapped 93.

SAB Ruling Questioned By Students

Social probation or no social probation—that is the question.

At the Student Activities Board (SAB) meeting May 16, two organizations, Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Allen Hall, men's residence hall, were placed on social probation.

Since that time, many individuals, especially from the Greek system, have questioned the meaning of the SAB ruling.

In a letter to both SAE and Allen Hall, the SAB has stated: "This probation means that an alertness to regulations must be respected, but there will be no restrictions on your activities."

Mrs. Maxine Hand, assistant to the associate dean of students, explained it thusly, "By the Greek (Inter-Fraternity Judiciary) interpretation, social probation means limited or no social events for a given period of time."

"Our (the SAB) interpretation is dealing with a social event. If SAE's infractions of the Organization Handbook rules had not been at a social event, the term 'social' never would have been mentioned."

SJS Freshman Coed Sets Javelin Mark

A record-breaking javelin throw off with five first place honors and took second, behind Chico State, in the ten-school meet.

AAU MEETS

Miss Slack has participated in both the 1964 and 1965 Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) national meets. Last year she placed eighth nationally in the javelin competition.

At present, with the season half over, she is rated sixth by AAU. Elinor is anticipating the July nationals this year and expects to throw the javelin at least 150 feet.

"I perform better under pressure, and I've been tossing around 144 feet regularly in practice," Miss Slack states.

OTHER WINNERS

Another outstanding participant in the Humboldt State meet was SJS freshman Linda Huey. She captured three first place honors in the 50-yard dash (6.4), 100-yard dash (11.8) and 220 (26.8). Miss Huey was selected as the outstanding participant in the meet.

Honors were also brought home by Cheryl Bingham, freshman, with a first in the 70-yard low hurdles (10.5), a second in the high jump (4-6) and a third in the running long jump (15-2½).

LSD Crackdown Promised by FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commissioner James L. Goddard said yesterday the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) "will move vigorously" against makers and distributors of the hallucination drug LSD.

All present manufacture and distribution of the controversial drug is illegal, he said.

Goddard told the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee that the crackdown also would include those who "possess significant quantities of the drug which could be sold or otherwise distributed."

He said original exemptions for investigational use of LSD had been terminated or withdrawn.

New exemptions are being worked out covering only legal experiments by about a dozen recognized experts, he said.
